Présentation de l'éditeur

Mobility is a huge asset in Dota 2. It allows a team to catch enemy heroes out of position, quickly take advantage of a pushed lane or retreat for defense. It forces an enemy to constantly be on their toes, to stick together, afraid to leave the safety of their towers. They are pressured into playing defensively, merely reacting to the situation and leaving control of the game in your hands. This is the aim of the global strategy. It is not an easy strategy to pull off. Unlike other strategies that can rely on superiority in the team fights or wait for a carry to farm up and dominate the end game. Constant aggression is required, using the mobility of the team to take advantage of any opportunities for ganks or tower kills that present themselves as early as possible.
